User Authentication

These two pages will be used to register and log into the website. The first page you will encounter when visiting the website. You will not be able to access any other part of the website, even if you get the URL correct if you do not complete registration and log in.

This page allows users who already have accounts registered with the website. Users will only need to enter their email and passwords into the form and click Sign in to have access to the webpage. Should a user be new to the website and not have a registered account, they may click on the link provided to access the page necessary to register their new account.

The Login Page form is titled "Log In" in a light gray header. It contains two input fields: the first for email, containing "cameronc.green@gmail.com", and the second for password, represented by six dots. Below the password field is a link that says "Dont have an account?click here". At the bottom is a blue button labeled "Sign in".

Registration page

Once on this page, users may enter three fields to register their accounts. To do this, users will need to enter their name, email, and password. They will receive an error if their email is already taken. Their password will be encrypted when stored and tokens will be exchanged in their place to ensure user's security and anonymity while accessing the site. Should users find themselves mistakenly on the page, they need only click on the link that directs them back to the log in screen.

Navigation Bar

Along the top part of the webpage, you will see a dark gray ribbon that extends from one side of the screen to the other. This is where you will navigate to your desired page. To do so, all will need to do is click the location you would like to visit. Let us take a look at the possible locations, and what you can expect to find on those pages.

- Home Page – that is the page you are currently on. You will notice no change unless you are on a different page.
- Form Page – this page is where you can fill out the information necessary in creating your pet.
- Checkout Page – the purpose of this page is to provide a review of your order and allow you to submit your payment.
- FAQ Page – this page shows a list of our most common questions from users and customers along with our answers.
- Log Out – This will allow users to log out of the website, taking them back to the log in screen.

Welcome and Introduction

This is the first thing visitors to our website will see. It will welcome you and give you an overview of who we are as a company and our mission. You do not need to do anything but read this section.

Sample Staff Designs

The next section of the page will show you a rotating set of images. These images will display some of our previous designs that have been popular among our staff. We have given each species an honorary name, as the nomenclature for its official, scientific name has yet to be determined. The unofficial species names have been voted upon by our staff, as well as a description for each species. As we design more animals. We hope to keep updating the list with our favorite.

List of Popular Services

Lastly, we have provided a list of our most popular services and included details to further elaborate on the service. For any questions or for more information on our services, please contact us using the information found in our brochure. We will be more than happy to provide any answers we can.

Form Element

Description of element

Text Field

A text field is small box that allows you to enter a single line of text. It is used for entering basic values, such as a name, number, or short phrase.

Radio Button

A radio button is an element that allows the user to choose only one of a predefined set of mutually exclusive options. Think of it as an online version of a multiple-choice question form a test.

Drop Down Menu

A drop-down list is an element that allows the user to choose one value from a list. When a drop-down list is not selected, it displays a single value.

When selected, the drop-down menu displays a list of values, from which the user may select one. In this instance, each item in this website's drop-down menus will provide a useful tooltip to further describe the possible option.

☐ Efficient circulation for faster movement

Checkbox

A small box on a form into which a check or other mark is entered as the response to a question. If the box is checked, then the option is selected. It is like the radio button, except it allows selection of multiple options rather one mutually exclusive one.

Pet Designer Page

Pet Information

Here you find fields that pertain to the most basic information about your pet. Below is list of the fields and their meaning.

- Pet Name – A textfield where you will type the name of your pet.
- Sex – allows you to choose the sex of your pet (male, female, and hermaphrodite).
- Reproduction – Provides the ability to choose your pet's method for reproduction (sexual, asexual, and sterile).

Evolutionary Traits

You will be presented with four drop-down menus to choose some of the evolutionary traits your pet may have. Different traits will be priced according to how complex the gene sequencing and editing will be. Below is a list of the evolutionary traits and their options.

- Terrain – Defines the primary terrain your pet is adapted for (terrestrial, aquatic, aerial, and amphibian).
- Respiratory System – Controls how your pet will breathe (lungs, gills, pores).
- Locomotion – Dictates the method in which your pet will move (legs, wings, fins, undulation).
- Vision – Determines how your pet will process light (compound, lens, chambered, blind).

Enhancements

Optional enhancements that may be included for your pet. The price for individual enhancements increases for each additional enhancement added to your pet. Below is a list of enhancements available to be added to your pet.

- Efficient circulation for faster movement.
- Denser muscle mass for increased strength.

- Neural network restructuring for improved information processing.
- Advanced pigment manipulation for adaptable camouflage.
- Increased calcium and phosphorus levels for thicker bones.
- Nictitating membrane; a third translucent eyelid that protects eyes from sunlight and minor scratches.
- Quicker cell division time to provide increased regenerative capabilities.
- Increased nerve and receptor clusters in nose to heighten nasal sensitivity.

Checkout Page

Billing Section

This section is where you will fill out the billing information for your payment. It primarily deals with providing details on you and your address. The section will contain the following fields:

- Two textfields; one for your first name and one for your last name
- A textfield for your username
- An optional textfield for your email address
- One required textfield for your address and an optional address textfield for apartments or suite numbers, etc.
- Two drop-down menus; one for selecting your country and another for your state
- A textfield to type your zipcode

Payment Section

This section will contain the information needed to process an online payment. It will only ask information pertaining to your payment. It will have these required fields:

- Three mutually exclusive options for payment (credit, debit, and PayPal)
- One textfield for your full name as it appears on the card
- One textfield for your card number
- Two textfields; one for the expiration date on the card and the other for the CVV of the card

Your Cart Section

This section will display a breakdown of your order as well as the prices for each item. Prices will vary depending on what options were selected. For example, it is far simpler, and therefore cheaper, to make a pet sterile rather than being able to reproduce sexually (which is still less complicated than reproducing asexually). Additionally, there will be an area for you to place any promotional codes or offers you have. Lastly, your total price will be displayed beneath the individual breakdown.

FAQ Page

The FAQ page is designed to provide quick answers to some of our most frequent questions. This is not meant to provide an answer to every question you may have, but to provide general answers to broad questions. Each customer has unique questions and we always encourage customers to reach out to us. Should you not find an answer to a question you are looking for, please feel free to contact our customer service department.

General Questions

This section will present some common general questions that have been asked. It answers questions about our company. These can range from questions about whether we have ethically, legally, and morally developed and grown our animals to the process for disposing of defective pets, or even addressing questions on our plans for the future. If you are a journalist or are looking for more detailed questions dealing with our company, please email our public relations director.

Pet Specific Questions

These questions will primary focus on pet-centric questions. We discuss how we handle customers with allergies, answer one of the most frequently asked question: how much it actually costs to fully develop an animal from scratch. We also address questions of what to do once you receive your pet, such as whether or not it needs to be trained, or what to do if your pet starts to behave in a strange, almost alien manner. Tips, tricks, and helpful advice on how to handle your pet can be found here.

Replacements, Returns, and Cancellations

We discuss our policies regarding replacements and refunds of pets. We also outline our cancellation policy that customers agree to when they purchase a pet. In general, we do not honor returns or replacements if the fault lies with the customer. We will handle each case individually and if we determine the fault lies with us, we will try every possible avenue to provide timely and quality reparations for our valued customers. If you are unhappy with our policies, or believe we may have made an unfair decision, we encourage you to reach out to your local consumer rights board.

Account Page

The account page is here for you to manage your account. You will have two options when it comes to this page: changing your password and deleting your account. For information about these topics, please refer to their respective sections below.

Change Password

This section of the page is dedicated to allowing users to update and change their passwords. To do so, simply fill in the three required fields and click the Update Password button to complete the process. The three fields are the current password, what you want your password to be, and a confirmation requiring you to retype your password. Please keep in mind, if your new password and retyped confirmation password do not match, you will receive an error and your password will not be updated. Once you are finished, hit the Update Password button.

Delete Account

You will be able to delete your account with this simple button. All you must do is click the button labeled Delete Account. This will delete the account you are currently logged in under. You do not need to worry about any other accounts you may have with us, as only the one you are logged in on at that specific time will be deleted.

This concludes the information necessary to navigate through our website. We hope you have found all your questions answered. If not, please feel free to contact us regarding further questions. We hope you enjoy your product and wish to hear feedback about your purchases.
